RAW SILK

Yokohama Gone Kobe Seeks Trade U. S. Grievances China's Chance

WITH the destruction of Yokohama and the large stocks held in silk, Yokohama being the main market for Japanese silk, a new problem has arisen. Another center of trading in the commodity has to be found, and merchants have been exercised over finding the right town. Kobe has been straining every nerve to get the silk merchants in Japan to establish themselves in that port and has been holding out the many advantages of this selection. It is but natural that the Kobe Chamber of Commerce should try to make Kobe the principal center of the silk export trade, but it looks doubtful whether it would be the best thing under the circumstances. Kobe has no conditioning house, which has to be provided at a port for silk export before it handles the business. There are interested parties in the country who have been putting forward the claims of Osaka, Nagoya and Shimizu, the latter being well connected with the producing center. As regards Osaka, the port cannot accommodate the large Pacific liners that carry the cargo to the United States. It therefore looks as if to Kobe will be transferred the silk trade of Japan.

It would be interesting to watch the future trend of things in the silk world. The raw silk market in the past has been very unstable. This was caused to a great degree by the speculation carried on in Japan through the Yokohama Silk Exchange. Complaints have been heard frequently of late from the American side to the effect that Japan is practically holding a monopoly in regard to the supply of raw silk and that Japanese producers often resort to artificial raising of prices for selfish purpose. It is not without reason that American manufacturers find the too frequent and violent fluctuations of prices intolerable. More than half the cost of the manufactured product is incurred through the purchase of the raw material. Therefore, the endless change of quotations seriously affects the stability of the business of the American silk manufacturers.

CHANGE MUST COME

In view of the fact that the center of the silk industry of Japan for some time to come will no longer be Yokohama, it would be interesting to see whether the Japanese manipulations in the raw commodity will continue to be as violent as in the past. Should it be so at the new exporting port, then we must confess that it would eventually result in serious loss to the Japanese silk industry. It is not altogether unlikely that the American silk manufacturers will be ultimately compelled to procure their supplies of raw silk in greater quantities from China than they have done in the past.

The United States is the principal consumer of Japanese raw silk, and unless the methods of the Japanese silk merchants are altered there is a great risk of Japan losing a good portion of the trade. It is time that the Japanese commenced to approach the situation in a proper spirit, and it would seem that now is the time for a remodelling of the old methods.

There are very serious complaints regarding the imperfections and the decline in the quality of Japanese raw silk, and these have recently become more numerous, more general and more persistent. In short, there is today very little relation between the market price of raw silk and its quality, and this resentment is showing itself in the greater interest being paid by American silk manufacturers to silk from China.

LOCAL CONSUMPTION

If China could succeed in increasing production a greater market could be secured in the United States for China silk, but there is a great impediment to increased exports. Taking Shanghai as an instance, we find here an enormous quantity of raw silk taken off the market for consumption in this country itself. It is estimated that the annual consumption in China is 250,000 bales. For instance, the Tsatlee districts alone produce from 130,000 to 150,0000 bales, but only a small portion of this goes out of the country. The continuance of the use of a large proportion of Chinese raw silk by the home industry does not certainly enable the expansion of the export market, but the economic waste which is enormous in China could be eliminated. The filatures could easily produce fifty percent more silk, and with the excellent work now being rendered by the International Committee for the Improvement of Sericulture and the University of Nanking and the Southeastern University in producing disease-free eggs the waste should be reduced considerably in future years.

In addition to the fluctuating

Shipping Board Vessels Do Splendid Service In Japan Quake Emergency

Thirteen Vessels, Mobilised Hastily And Directed By Capt. Eisler, Deliver Needed Supplies And Handle Thousands Of Refugees

Word of the splendid work of United States Shipping Board vessels and of other craft of various nationality during and immediately succeeding the seismic holocaust in Japan was brought to Shanghai by Captain W. I. Eisler, of the firm of Eisler, Reeves and Murphy and special representative of the U. S. Shipping Board, who went through the quake horror himself, subsequently being in charge of Shipping Board activities at Yokohama, and returned here by the steamer President Wilson.

Captain Eisler himself had the narrowest of escapes from being a victim of the quake in Yokohama. Through the sheerest of chances, he, together with Mr. Rodger ("Dinty") Moore, formerly of the Astor House here, left Yokohama the day before the shock for Hakone. Hakone was totally destroyed, but Capt. Eisler and Mr. Moore escaped and made their way afoot—a terrible journey across mountainous country where roads were completely destroyed and rivers were to be forded—to Yokohama. They brought with them five other foreigners, including two women, whom they met in Mipanoshita and who insisted on joining in the long trek to the coast.

PRAISE ANDRE LEBON

Captain Eisler and his party reached Yokohama on Tuesday evening, after three gruelling days, and were taken aboard the French Mail liner Andre Lebon. Of the officers and men of this ship, as well as of those of the Empress of Australia and the Dongola, Captain Eisler declared that he could not say too much in the way of praise.

"If it had not been for them," he said, "thousands of foreigners and many Japanese undoubtedly would have perished."

S. B. BOATS ACTIVE

No less than thirteen United States Shipping Board vessels engaged in the relief work at Yokohama, doing, as has been previously recorded, heroic work in the transporting of injured and destitute refugees, the furnishing of supplies and the rendering of surgical and medical assistance.

Especially, Captain Eisler emphasised the character of the work done by Captain Nichols and his officers and crew, of the President Jefferson; Captain Tin, of the West O'Rowa and, most especially Captain H. R. Lyons, of Kobe, who piloted the latter vessel up and down the coast untiringly and with wonderful accuracy when most of the navigation lights were to a great extent destroyed. The efforts of Captain Lyons were responsible for the rescue of 1,600 destitute Chinese.

Eloquent tribute was also accorder Mr. J. E. Buckley, Kobe agent of the Columbia Pacific Steamship Co., who organised and directed the relief work on the West O'Rowa.

HEROIC CAPTAIN LAFFIN

Captain Eisler also laid much stress upon the services rendered at Yokohama by Captain T. M. Laffin and his two sons, John and William, whose dramatic relief of the big French Mail liner Andre Lebon has been chronicled previously.

Of the United States Shipping Board boats the first to arrive in the stricken port of Yokohama was the steamer West Prospect, which came into the harbor on the afternoon of September 1, the day of the disaster. She was short of water, but immediately set about taking refugees aboard and sailed for Kobe with the sufferers on the next afternoon.

The steamer West Jena arrived in Yokohama on September 2 and sailed for Kobe on the next day, with refugees aboard—the exact number is not known, though the ship is believed not to have taken as many as could have been carried. The American Consul at Kobe has started an investigation on this point.

The President Jefferson arrived in Kobe on the night of the 2nd. She immediately took aboard 350 refugees, while the ship's doctor hurried to the Empress of Australia with medical supplies to give all assistance possible to the overworked doctor of the Australia. Supplies of water were also sent to other ships and even ashore from the Jefferson and a big shipment of foodstuffs, including two tons of meat, was hurried to the Andre Lebon, which was crowded with survivors.

The Jefferson sailed for Kobe on Monday afternoon to get water and supplies and carrying her big contingent of refugees. She arrived in Kobe on the 4th and sailed the next noon for Seattle with 110 refugees for Seattle. Arriving at Yokohama on the 6th she took aboard 50 additional refugees from the Empress of Australia and sailed for the States.

CONSUL GENERAL SAYS ABOUT 200 FOREIGNERS DEAD

Mr. Cunningham Returns From Relief Work At Kobe

About 200 foreigners were killed in the Japanese earthquake and about 200 more are confined to hospitals in Kobe with injuries received during the quake and fire, according to United States Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham who returned from Kobe last night on the Empress of Russia.

Mr. Cunningham went to Kobe when news of the catastrophe was received to assist American Consular officials in Japan in handling the situation. Mr. Nelson Johnson, Consul-General at-Large, and Mr. J. T. Wright, Vice-Consul, who went with him, have gone on to Yokohama.

The relief situation in Kobe at the present time is greatly improved, Mr. Cunningham told a CHINA PRESS representative who met him at the Custom's jetty. Kobe, of course, was swamped with the first influx of refugees, but as soon as the International Relief Committee was organised and functioning they took the situation in hand in marvelous fashion and now everything is functioning perfectly.

Mr. Cunningham said that it was still impossible to obtain an accurate estimate of the dead and missing because of the chaos that came immediately after the catastrophe, and the difficulty of identification, but that it was certain that 200 foreigners had been killed.

"It may have been many more," Mr. Cunningham said, "because from reports we have the lobbies of the Oriental, Grand and Belmont Hotels were crowded at the noon hour and nearly all were killed. Many of them were tourists and it is extremely difficult to obtain an accurate check on them."

Mr. Cunningham said that there were also about 200 foreigners still in Kobe hospitals. The Shanghai Relief unit has taken charge of the temporary hospital in the Oriental Hotel, with the exception of Dr. W. W. Peter, who joined the Chinese Red Cross unit and went on to Tokio.

"Foreigners of all nationalities can be proud of the work of the International Relief Committee," Mr. Cunningham said, "and Americans, particularly, can be proud of the way Americans there have conducted themselves, of the splendid response Americans have made in relief measures, and of the noble work of the American Navy."

NEW PARLEY ON OPIUM TRAFFIC, LEAGUE'S PLAN

Committee Asks Conference On Methods Of Suppression

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 20.—The Opium Traffic Committee of the League of Nations today adopted a resolution requesting the Council to invite the interested Governments to confer for the purpose of deciding on reduction in the quantity of raw opium which may be imported for smokers in territories where its use is temporarily maintained and of considering the measures to be adopted by China for the suppression of opium production and the illicit use of opium there. The Council will also be invited to seek an opportunity of assembling a second conference, comprising all the members of the League and all the parties to the 1912 Hague Convention.

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 20.—Speaking before the Opium Traffic Committee, Mr. Chu Chao-hsin agreed to the interpretation of Mr. Porter, the American representative, of legitimate use as being medical and scientific. He pointed out that China was the only country making no reservations to the American proposals, and gave the assurance that China would be able totally to suppress the traffic in the near future. He reiterated that the Government had never considered legalising the opium traffic. The Chinese delegate expressed China's indebtedness to Sir John Jordan and Viscount Hardinge for their assistance in ridding China of the Opium Traffic.

Dictionary Case Ended With Trademark Upheld, Copyright Claim Disallowed

A highly important decision, as effecting publishers and booksellers here was handed down in the Mixed Court yesterday by Assessor Allman and Magistrate Loh in connection with the suit of Messrs. G. and C. Merriam Company against the Commercial Press, Ltd., for alleged piracy of copyright and infringement of trademark as regard publication of "Webster's Collegiate Dictionary."

The Court held against the defendants as regards trademark, contending that the complainants' trademark was wrongfully utilised in the prospectus for the work, but held on the other hand that the copyright infringement charge was not substantiated. Damages of Tls. 1,500 and costs were awarded the complainants and the defendants were perpetually enjoined from circulating the prospectus of the dictionary. Moreover, the cut appearing on the dictionaries was ordered not to be used and plaintiffs' trademark was debarred from use, while the plates, moulds, etc., used in publication of the prospectus were ordered to be destroyed.

The ruling on the copyright angle of the case, wherein the claim was disallowed, is the point, however, most interesting to publishers in this part of the world.

THE JUDGMENT

The text of the judgment follows:

This is an action brought by the American publishers, G. and C. Merriam Company, against the Commercial Press, Ltd., a Chinese company. The plaintiffs in their petition allege that they are the owners of the copyright for Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, published in the English language; that they are the owners of a trademark consisting of the words "Webster" and "Webster's Collegiate" below the representation of a wreath in which is enclosed the letter "W" in fanciful form, and enclosed in a circle, and that the trademark has been registered in the United States and in China and has been used continuously by the plaintiffs since 1890 by affixing the same on the covers of dictionaries published by them, thus distinguishing plaintiffs' dictionaries from those published by others.

The plaintiffs further allege that the said trademark has been registered at the American Consulate in Shanghai, and also under the provisional regulations in force in China covering the registration of trademarks. They allege further that the dictionary has been prepared and compiled in the United States at great cost and labor, and they have a valuable pecuniary right in the dictionary and in the right to print, publish and sell the same, and that they had an extensive sale for the dictionary in China.

Plaintiffs allege also that the defendants have published a dictionary under the title of "Webster's Collegiate Dictionary with Chinese Translation," and that they have issued a prospectus advising the public of the same and soliciting orders to purchase, and have obtained advance subscriptions for it. They allege that the defendants have simulated plaintiffs' trademark in such a manner as to deceive the ordinary person into believing that the dictionary published by the defendants is the same as that published by the plaintiffs with the addition of a Chinese translation: that the defendants have in fact copied verbatim the plaintiffs' dictionary and have merely added a Chinese translation. The plaintiffs claim that the actions of the defendants are in violation of their copyright and trademark rights: that the defendants produce and sell an English dictionary with a Chinese translation at a price lower than plaintiffs can produce and sell their English dictionary in China.

COOLIDGE BOOM IS OPPOSED BY G.O.P. LEADERS

Senators From Pennsylvania Withhold Endorsement Of Candidacy

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Washington, Sept. 21.—Senator George Wharton Pepper and Senator David Reed, Pennsylvania's two representatives in the United States Senate and leaders of the Republican party in the state today issued a statement in which they declared they were withholding their endorsement of any candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

The statement, coming from two of the leading Republican members of the Senate and the representatives of one of the nation's most populous states, has put a temporary halt at least on the boom for President Calvin Coolidge, as the statement is taken as an indication that President Coolidge must 'win his spurs' before he is offered the nomination to succeed himself.

Friends of the President here refuse to take the statement as a blow to Coolidge's aspirations, holding that it is a wise move as it would be unwise to push Coolidge's candidacy unduly at the present time.

Meanwhile the boom for Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, former Bull Mooser and close friend of the late President Roosevelt, is gaining steadily although it has not as yet received the open endorsement of any prominent Republican leaders. and Reed to endorse President The refusal of Senators Pepper Coolidge may be a canny move on their part to see how far the boom for Pennsylvania's favorite son goes before they commit themselves.

PEKING PAYS INDEMNITY FOR COLTMAN DEATH

G.$25,000 Is Turned Over As Recompense For Murder Of American

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 21.—The government yesterday paid over the indemnity of G. $25,000 for the murder of Mr. Coltman. The case may now be considered settled.

This morning the local agencies of the China and South Sea Bank paid out nearly $200,000 in the course of a run which is variously ascribed to activities of anti-government propagandists in the hope of embarrassing the government and rendering the latter unable to tide over the festival knowing that Mr. Chang Hu was to sign today or tomorrow a loan agreement with representatives of the South Sea, Yatu, Chungcheng and Salt Banks. On the other hand it is suggested that the run was inspired by official circles in order to induce the aforementioned banks to make the desired advance.

The chamber of commerce and other public bodies have called the attention of the government to the grave situation arising from the depreciation of the copper notes. They requested that a remedy should be found and demanded the punishment of Mr. Chang Ying-hua who is held responsible for the over-issue of the notes, failing which the people will take the matter into their own hands.

PRINTERS AND UNIONS SPLIT OVER STRIKE

New York Newspapers Are Now Published In Modified Form

(BY UNITED PRESS)

New York, Sept. 21.—The International Pressmen's Union today issued an order suspending all members of the union who went on the lightning strike which has caused the stopping of publication of all New York City newspapers.

The suspension resulted because of the fact that the New York locals had no authority from the National Union to go on strike.

The recruiting of other printers and pressmen now becomes possible and it is expected that the papers will start publication tomorrow or the next day at the most.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 20.—The owners of the Metropolitan newspapers have informed the President of the International Pressmen's Union that they have refused to deal further with the local organisation, declaring its strike illegal.

The men are defiant and declare that they will await the President's threatened revocation of the local Union's charter.

The President has announced that the 2,500 strikers are no longer members of his Union because their action is illegal. The Union will provide non-strikers with "working cards."

The papers still appear under a common caption but each is issued under its own name and in its own style and type and contains its usual features.

The publishrs state that the common newspaper has reached 70 per cent. of the normal circulation.

HIGH HOPES HELD OUT AS MEETING AT PARIS ENDS

Baldwin Remains Over Extra Day For Conference

FULLY SATISFIED

Leave-Taking With Poincare Most Cordial

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 20.—The British Premier, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, in the course of a fartwell call on M. Poincare today, expressed his entire satisfaction at yesterday's interview. The leave-taking was most cordial.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 20.—Official quarters in London have had no information with regard to the meeting in Paris yesterday between Mr. Baldwin and M. Poincare, but the fact that the Prime Minister has postponed his return to London till tomorrow is regarded as indicating that sufficient headway was made to warrant a resumption of conversation, possibly after the French Premier meets his Cabinet.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 20.—M. Poincare today made a statement on the foreign situation at a Cabinet Council.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin made personal calls this morning and visited Versailles.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 20.—The British Premier went to the Quay d'Orsay this afternoon to take leave of M. Poincare.

At Rambouillet M. Poincare made a statement to the Cabinet on the foreign situation.

M. Le Trocquer, Minister of Public Works, reported to the Cabinet on his tour of inspection on the Ruhr.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 20.—The French press is unanimous in expressing satisfaction at today's interview between the two Premiers.

The Temps writes: "For long months far-seeing Britons and Frenchmen were hoping for the conversation which has now been begun betweeen M. Poincare and Mr. Baldwin. The communique from the British Embassy shows clearly that the conversation was useful. It is a message that we read with real joy." The Temps also emphasises that "after his conversation with M. Poincare, Mr. Baldwin paid a visit to President Millerand. He will thus have been able to ascertain the unity and firmness of the unchangeable policy of France as well as its moderation."

The Journal des Debats says: "It is important for the repose of the whole world, for the re-establishment of normal life in Europe, for the safeguarding of right and for ethics that the supreme effort of a nation shall count and that the vanquished shall yield without evasion. The occupation of the Ruhr is operating and efficaciously operating for the German people recognises that it is not the stronger in the reparations conflict and that it must finally pay if it wishes to free itself from the Allies' grip."

The British press generally welcomes with satisfaction the news received from Paris, with the exception of the Daily Telegraph which emphasises the impossibility of finding a solution in such a rapid conversation and other papers which, like the Times, make certain reservations.

The Morning Post says: "The friends of France, and they are as numerous in 1923 as in 1914, have every reason to be satisfied with yesterday's events. The Conservatives are grateful to Mr. Baldwin for having given such a testimony of sincere goodwill towards France. The collapse of passive resistance in Germany has created a new situation. The German clique, which since the signature of the Treaty of Versailles has tried by every means to evade the obligations of the Treaty, has collapsed in its attempts to checkmate the French in the Ruhr."

The Daily News concludes: "In the present situation an agreement between Great Britain and France is easier than when the British Note was published."

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 20.—German circles tend to recognise the necessity of resumption of work in the Ruhr and are insistently demanding it. According to figures published in the Berliner Zeitung, 50 percent of the population of Mayence and Wiesbaden, 68 percent of that of Treves and almost 80 percent that of the towns in the Ruhr are a charge on the State. The Westfaelische Volkszeitung, the organ of the Catholic center, criticises the employment made of the State subsidies. According to the Rote Fahne, these credits have most often been employed for obscure ends. For instance, the great Wolff trust is charged with having made use of large sums, destined for the payment of workers, for various purposes.

(Reuter's service)

Berlin, Sept. 21.—Political circles are mystified with regard to the significance of French reports of restoration of the Entente.

A semi-official statement announced willingness to abandon passive resistance on certain terms, notably that imprisoned persons shall be granted an amnesty, that those expelled shall be allowed to return and that the administration shall be returned to the hands of German officials. It declares that the reparations question could then be solved by effective payments in a manner entailing evacuation of the Ruhr and restoration of conditions in the Rhineland.

Excitement was created on the Bourse by a brilliant coup of the financial dictator Herr Frellinger, instructing the Reichstag to meet all demands for foreign currency. Traders and speculators who were accustomed to receive approximately 5 percent of their requirements, had formed a habit of considerably overstating their needs with the result that they were astounded when their full demands were met. They were unable to pay for it and threw foreign currencies back into the market, causing an improvement in the mark to 450,000,000 to £1.

Yokohama Harbor Can Be Restored

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 21.—It has come to light as a result of close investigations that Yokohama, which it was at one time reported would be abandoned, is all right as a commercial port. In this connection, Mr. Harada, engineer-in-chief of the department of home affairs, declares that it is within the bounds of possibility that the harbor of Yokohama can be restored to the original state by November of the present year at a cost of 10,000,000 yen as emergency harbor construction expenses. Though Yokohama was completely demolished, the population there being reduced to one-third, the remaining citizens are all bent on the revival of the port.

Rare Books Lost By Tokio Library

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 21.—With regard to the damage done to the library of the Tokio Imperial University, those who are in charge of the library, are now, without taking any rest and sleep, making investigations. It transpires that of 750,000 books kept in the library, over 500,000 were burned out. The loss is estimated approximately at 100,000,000 Yen. As for the recovery of the library, preparations are being made.

Open Door Policy Asked In Tangier

(Reuter's Service)

Dictionary Case Ended With Trademark Upheld

the defendants from publishing and selling the dictionary entitled "Webster's Collegiate Dictionary with Chinese Translation," and using the design which the plaintiffs claim as a trademark; for an order of the court requiring the destruction of all plates, moulds, and other property in alleged infringing matter; an order restraining the defendants from selling or delivering the said dictionary and for damages and costs on the following counts:

1. Pirating of copyright.
2. Infringement of trademark.
3. Unfair trading.

The defendants by their answer admit that they are publishing a dictionary under the title "Webster's Collegiate Dictionary with Chinese Translation;" that they have issued a prospectus with the same and obtained orders and advance subscriptions, but deny each and every other material allegation in the petition.

In respect to the question of copyright, the defendants argument proceeds on the hypothesis that there is no law in China against the reprinting and reproducing of another's intellectual property and that they consequently have the legal right to reprint or reproduce generally such works without the author's or publisher's consent and without making any return to the latter. Further that not only is no legal wrong done by such reproduction but that any suggested violations of ethical or moral laws by such action are offset by the needs of Chinese students for a large quantity of educational and other literature within the purchasing power of the student, and that plaintiffs' books, as well as other foreign printed books, are not within this purchasing power. Further that this need can be met only by the reproduction of the works of foreign authors and publishers with or without their consent.

Courts do not enforce rights and obligations that are merely ethical or moral, but are confined to rights and obligations that are legal or come within equity. Ethics and morals are left to the realm of good conscience. This court therefore disclaims any power or intention of passing upon the ethical or moral principles involved in in this case.

As to the legal rights here involved the plaintiffs have failed to produce sufficient proof that they have copyright privileges in either the United States or that they have filed application for provisional registration of copyright in China. The plaintiffs' petition in respect to copyright is therefore dismissed.

TRADEMARK ISSUE

Plaintiffs' trademark consists of the words "Websters" and "Webster's Collegiate," below the representation of a wreath in which is enclosed the letter "W" in a fanciful form, all enclosed in a circle. This trademark is used by affixing same upon the cover of the dictionaries published by plaintiffs.

About November, 1922, defendants issued a prospectus at the top of which appeared the wording "Websters Collegiate Dictionary" with Chinese translation. The first three words were in larger type than the last three words. The Chinese characters are a literal translation of the English words.

Just below this wording was a cut of a dictionary on the cover of which was the above wording, with the same ratio of type. This wording was below the representation of a wreath in which were enclosed the letter "S" (C.P.) but indistinguishable as such except under minute examination. This wreath and the above wording were enclosed in a circle. Thus the ensemble, on the cut in the prospectus, approximates in appearance a fasimile of plaintiffs' design, with the addition of the words "with Chinese Translation" in small type.

There was no evidence put before the court of any registration by plaintiffs of their trademark in the United States or of its having been filed for provisional registration with the Chinese Maritime Customs although such registration was alleged in the petition. Plaintiffs' agent, however, testified that the plaintiffs have continuously used the foregoing trademark in respect to dictionaries since before 1902. He, in fact, testified that he has sold plaintiffs' dictionaries under said trademark since 1903 and has learned from the records of his firm that said sold the same dictionaries under this trademark some 10 or more years prior to that date. There is no contradictory testimony on this point. Plaintiffs' agent further testified that defendants joined the plaintiffs' agent in 1917 in attempting to suppress a pirated edition of plaintiffs' dictionary put out by the Chung Hwa Book Company. The defendants' manager testified that he could not recall helping to suppress the pirated edition but stated that perhaps the pirated edition was put on the market. On cross examination plaintiffs' agent testified in respect to defendants' prospectus:

THE PROSPECTUS

"I know what the defendants' prospectus sets out although part of it is in Chinese. The general appearance shows that it is advertising plaintiffs' book. I have been stopped on the street and asked if the book advertised is plaintiffs' book. People think the advertisement covers plaintiffs' book and it has been brought to my attention from several outside sources. The name of the Commercial Press, Ltd., is on the prospectus but the circular trademark shows very clearly that it is plaintiffs' dictionary. I know from personal knowledge that plaintiffs have used this trademark since 1903 and from the records of our office that it was used prior to that time."

Defendants protest plaintiffs' claim to a valid trademark in China in the world's "Webster" or "Websters Collegiate Dictionary" in combination with the design claimed by them. Defendants' brief calls attention to the lack of proof of registration of such trademark in the United States or in China and claim that plaintiffs could not acquire a valid trademark in the United States or in China in the words "Websters Collegiate" in combination with the design claimed by them as such words are generic. It is true plaintiffs failed to prove registration as alleged in their petition. There is, however, abundant evidence before the court that plaintiffs' design and combination of words has been used continuously in China by plaintiffs on dictionaries for over 20 years and perhaps for over 30 years.

ACQUIRED RIGHTS

The court is of the opinion that by such long use of the particular design and combination of words the plaintiffs have acquired proprietary rights therein. This right has been acquired by long use and we do not see that registration, or the lack thereof, of the design and wording in question in the United States or elsewhere could in any manner affect such right. This long use in China would per se vest proprietary rights in the plaintiffs in this country irrespective of whether the design and wording were used and or registered in the United States.

This opinion we believe disposes of defendants contention that plaintiffs have attempted to create a monopoly in the publication of a book after the expiration of its copyright under pretense that the book is protected by a trademark.

Under the circumstances the court cannot agree with defendants' contention that the words "Websters" and "Websters Collegiate" as used by plaintiffs are generic in character and thus not valid as a trademark. This contention might be upheld had those words been used separately or collectively but not in combination with any design. Plaintiffs however used these words in combination with a circle, a wreath and a fanciful "W." The Court therefore holds that this combination was sufficiently arbitrary to form a valid trademark. It may be somewnat unusual to use a trademark on a book but the Court can see no reason why this should not be done. In the present case the plaintiffs have actually used this particular trademark on their dictionaries sold in China for a long period of time. It is a familiar feature on the cover of plaintiffs' dictionaries. This of course was known to defendants who at one time sold plaintiffs' books. Also the Court can see no good reason why the defendants so closely reproduced this trademark on the prospectus they sent out. Deendants' manager testified that they had not even approached the plaintiffs for a license of the trademark; did not in fact consider it necessary to get such a license or to get permission to reprint the dictionary.

TRADEMARK INFRINGED

After carefully viewing and considering the prospectus put out by the defendants, and after a full consideration of the other facts proven in this cause the Court is of the opinion that defendants have colorfully infringed plaintiffs' trademark.

Defendants are therefore hereby perpetually enjoined from further circulating the offending prospectus; from in any manner using the cut appearing thereon the dictionaries printed or sold by them; or from in any manner using plaintiffs trademark. The plates, moulds or other articles from which this prospectus was made are to be destroyed together with any copies of the prospectus that may not have been circulated.

Plaintiffs to recover from defendants costs and nominal damages say Tls. 1,500.

The temporary injunction issued in this cause is hereby merged into this decree.

WHOLE FAMILY BUTCHERED BY OFFICER, CLAIM

Japanese Gendarmerie Captain Killed Socialist, Wife, Children

(Nihon Dempo)

Tokio, Sept. 20.—As to the truth of the illegal conduct perpetrated by Captain Amakasu, battalion commander of the Tokio gendarmerie corps, it now transpires that on the night of the 17th, he and his henchman, Sergeant Mori, arrested Mr. Osugi Sakae, famous anarchist, and his wife, together with their two children. The four were sent to the headquarters of gendarmerie at Akasaka.

Captain Amakasu, assuming the capacity of judge, heaped abuse on the socialist, and the latter responded with an equal degree of vehemence. The hot dispute ended with the use of sabre by the irritated captain. Mr. Osugi was killed first and then his wife and two children.

The dead bodies were wrapped in old newspapers and were thrown into an old well back of the gendarmerie office.

The matter came to the knowledge of the higher authorities on the 20th. The bodies of the socialists' family were recovered from the well and sent to the court martial for examination.

It is said that Captain Amakasu, murderer of Mr. Osugi, has been one of the latter's friends, but has always been disgusted with him on account of his dangerous ideas.

Dr. Irons Gets Damages From Mr. R. T. Ryton

Dr. C. G. Irons, dentist, secured damages for $160 and costs from Mr. R. T. Ryton of 362 Avenue Joffre in the British Supreme Court yesterday for professional services.

Mr. Ryton refused to pay the bill for work done on his wife's teeth on the ground that it was more than had been agreed upon when Dr. Irons was first consulted. Dr. Irons testified that he had worked on Mrs. Ryton's teeth fifteen times and after a dispute over the bill had offered to settle for $100, which the defendant refused. Dr. Irons had also offered to have any foreign dentist in Shanghai arbitrate concerning the quality of the work done and the amount charged.

of Mr. R. C. Morton, U. S. Shipping Board director for the Orient, reached Yokohama on the morning of the 5th, bringing water, food and medical supplies and a relief party including three doctors under charge of Mr. J. E. Buckley, Kobe agent for the Columbia Pacific S.S. Co. The West O'Rowa was piloted by Capt. H. R. Lyons, formerly a Shipping Board skipper, but at the time engaged in business at Kobe, who volunteered his services.

On its arrival at Yokohama, the West O'Rowa was boarded by Captain Eisler, who had been placed in charge of Shipping Board activities, and Captain Tin, Captain Lyons and Mr. Buckley offered fullest co-operation. Captain Lyons, being especially well acquainted with the port, was sent ashore to investigate, with members of the relief party. They returned reporting large numbers of Chinese encamped along the beach and suffering greatly owing to having been without food or water for four days, while many of their number were injured. After a conference it was decided to evacuate these poor sufferers at once and all the ships and boats were brought into operation. Capt. Laffin did yeoman work here by bringing his motor boat into play and towing the boats to the ship, aided by his two sons. They worked all during the night and on the following morning an additional 400 Chinese refugees were brought over from the Andre Lebon and Empress of Australia. Among these there were 45 "stretcher" cases. The injuries among this contingent were for the most part serious and the three doctors aboard, an American, a German and a Russian performed no less than 45 amputations en route to Kobe. All were successful, one of the most wonderful pieces of work on record anywhere.

In all the West O'Rowa carried to Kobe 1,873 refugees, of whom 1,669 were Chinese, 153 were Europeans and 51 were Japanese. In addition to this the West O'Rowa supplied foodstuffs and medical material to the Andre Lebon. When she arrived in Kobe, the West O'Rowa disembarked all refugees, the wounded being transferred to hospitals and hastily outfitted accommodations.

Arriving at Kobe the ship was outfitted with rice boilers, bake ovens and hospital supplies and immediately set out for Yokohama again, arriving on the 11th. Here she started loading Japanese refugees and sailed for Kobe on the 13th with no fewer than 2,008 Japanese. On the way back to Kobe she encountered a heavy typhoon, but weathered the storm in splendid style and brought her cargo of lives to Kobe without a single casualty aboard.

The Shipping Board boat Wawalona reached Yokohama on September 5. She was deep loaded, with a deck load of lumber fore and aft, and consequently could not take any refugees aboard. But nevertheless, the skipper lowered his boats and delivered to the French Mail steamer Andre Lebon all the provisions that could be spared, including two tons of fresh meats, two tons of potatoes, a ton and a half of fresh vegetables and all the eggs, butter and flour aboard.

In addition to this the master, officers and crew of the Wawalona gave all their personal clothing, shoes and whatever medical supplies they possessed to the refugees.

THE PATRICK HENRY

The Shipping Board boat Patrick Henry, which hurried from Hakodate to Yokohama following the quake, arrived on the 10th, coming alongside the President Wilson and delivering 130 tons of fresh water. The Henry sailed for Kobe with a capacity cargo of refugees on the 12th.

The President McKinley reached Yokohama on the 11th from Seattle and sailed for Kobe on the 15th with all possible refugees—European, American, Japanese and Chinese.

The President Grant reached Kobe on the 13th with relief stores, foodstuffs, medical supplies, building materials, motor trucks, and so forth from Shanghai. On instructions from the officials in charge, the food supplies, amounting to about 1,700 tons were unloaded in Kobe. This necessitated the unloading of a large quantity of quicklime and lumber which was above the other cargo. The Japanese stevedores at Kobe refused to reload this cargo and hence it had to be left at Kobe, despite the urgent need in the afflicted cities.

PIERCE AND WILSON

The steamer President Pierce did not get into Yokohama until 9 p.m. September 8 from Kobe. She immediately took on board refugees from the Andre Lebon and Empress of Australia and on the next day, after disembarking refugees who wished to stay in the East to the President Wilson and embarking those who wished to go to the States, sailed for San Francisco on the 10th. It is not yet known how many refugees the Pierce took out.

The President Wilson arrived in Yokohama on the 9th with damaged boilers and a shortage of water. She took aboard refugees from the Andre Lebon, the Empress of Australia and the U. S. Navy destroyers which had been bringing people from Tokio and other nearby ports. After repairs had been made and water had been taken aboard the Wilson sailed from Yokohama on September 12 at noon. During her stay in Yokohama she handled 384 American and European refugees, while she carried 121 Americans and Europeans from Yokohama. From Kobe she took 293 destitute Chinese for Hongkong.

NAVY SHIPS AID

Other Shipping Board boats which were summoned to the scene and rendered assistance after the quake included the West Cactus and the Mursa, which delivered what stores they could and aided in the evacuation of refugees.

The Shipping Board vessels cooperated with the U. S. Navy craft which were rushed to Yokohama Harbor after the disaster.

The first U. S. Navy ship to arrive was the destroyer 218, on September 5, while on the following day the 43rd destroyer division, under command of Capt. Lincoln came into port and immediately despatched a ship to Tokio for refugees.

On the 8th the Huron, flagship of the U. S. Asiatic Fleet, arrived, with Admiral Anderson aboard, and was brought up into the harbor by Captain Eisler, who was elected to bring the ship in owing to his knowledge of the harbor and his study of the changes effected in the bay by the earthquake. Capt. Eisler was invited by Admiral Anderson to become an unofficial member of his staff for the purpose of co-operating with the commander in chief regarding the activities of the Shipping Board fleet in relief measures.

Captain Eisler remained in charge of Shipping Board activities until the 18th, when it was deemed safe to return the ships to their regular schedules, and, after calling at Kobe, came on to Shanghai, where he was welcomed in almost hysterical fashion by his many friends here—it having been reported previously that he was among the dead at Yokohama.

HIGH LIGHTS IN GRIFFITHS NEW MOTION PICTURE EPIC

Some of the Outstanding Facts and Figures Concerning "Orphans of the Storm," Wizard Producer's Latest Photoplay Sensation.

A perusal of these facts and figures will give a fairly accurate idea of the magnitude of the picture, but the real magnificence and tremendously big aspects of this Griffith dramatic epic must be seen to be properly appreciated.

"Orphans of the Storm" is an adaptation of that famous old stage classic, "The Two Orphans."

It is more than a "million dollar" picture; but Mr. Griffith does not consider that of importance.

Nearly twelve months were occupied in working up to, making and finishing the picture.

Eighteen months were spent on period study and research work.

Twenty-six tons of properties were imported from France that the dress and scenes might be faithful to history.

Each scene was photographed from three to ten times.

The Misses Lillian and Dorothy Gish appear together for the first time since "Hearts of the World," also a Griffith feature.

Joseph Schildkraut, known as the "handsomest man," makes first film appearance.

The wigs for the production cost more than the entire outlay for the first five reel-picture Mr. Griffith made.

The stage play, "The Two Orphans," first presented in America at the Union Square Theatre in December, 1874, was played 7,000 times by Kate Claxton. It has been played more than 100,000 times in the United States.

The author, a Frenchman, Adolphe D'Ennery, changed his name to Phillips because his father was ashamed of having a playwright for a son.

The fountain in the Bel-Air scene weighs sixty tons and was appraised at $60,000.

The reproduction of Paris covered fourteen acres, the largest studio set ever built. Three of the houses are reproductions from three now standing, past which the death-carts rumbled over 100 years ago.

The room in which the king appears is an exact replica in size, paintings and minute detail of the grand salon in the Palace at Versailles. It is the largest room ever built in a studio.

Three million feet of lumber were used in constructing Paris; 3,000 tons of paving stone were set in the streets; ninety barrels of paint were used, and 4,000 panes of glass.

The Bel-Air scene was constructed at the Griffith studio and faithfully portrays the lavishness of the period. Many of the girls in the scene are famous beauties, several of them prominent socially.

The fountain of wine is an actual reality, done with the permission of the prohibition enforcement agent.

This gigantic photoplay will be shown at the Carlton Theatre.

Useless To Deal With Peking Now, Says London Paper

(French Wireless)

London, Sept. 21.—Commenting on a telegram from its Peking correspondent on lawlessness in China, the Times expresses the opinion that it is hopeless to proceed by ordinary diplomatic means against such a disintegrated community as prevails today in China. The journal thinks that the most eminent provincial Governors could probably be enlisted to support a practical scheme for readjusting the fiscal relations between Peking and the provinces, but in any case the foreign Powers cannot allow themselves to be flouted any more. If China fails to act herself, there are several ways in which the Powers can effectively assert their views, a last resort being a large increase of the foreign garrisons.

LOCAL CHURCH HAS BIRTHDAY SERVICE SUNDAY

Community Church Completing Third Year Of Existence

"Three coins or three bills from each person who attends our services next Sunday," announced Rev. Clifford M. Drury, pastor of Community Church at the services last Sunday. "Next Sunday will be our third birthday and the three coins or the three bills will signify the three years in which God has blessed our activities. The collection at both services will be given as a thank offering and turned over to the building fund."

Three years ago Community Church was organised with 251 charter members. It grew out of the American Song Service. Dr. Luther Freeman was called out from the States to be its first pastor. He served the church from the fall of 1920 to the late spring of 1922. For nearly nine months following the church was without a pastor. A call was then extended to the Rev. Clifford M. Drury who has just completed six months of service.

During the past three years the church has almost doubled its membership. About 47,000 taels were realised on its building fund campaign. Land has been purchased opposite the American School. Mr. J. H. Black of the China Missions Architect's Bureau has been engaged as the architect and active work on the building of the first unit will be started late this fall.

Since only 47,000 taels were secured out of the 65,000 taels needed, it was felt by the officials of the church that a generous thank offering given this coming Sunday on the church's third birthday would give another boost to the building fund.

The services for Sunday will be as follows:

9:30 a.m.—Sunday School in the American School Buildings 10 Avenue Petain.

11:00—Morning worship in the Columbia Country Club. Take Zikawei Car No. 2 and get off at Route Doumer. The pastor Rev. Clifford M. Drury will preach from the text Gal. 6:17. Subject: "The Brand of Christ." The choir will sing the anthem "The King of Love, still, still with Thee."

5:00 p.m.—Song Service in the gymnasium of the new Navy Y.M.C.A., corner of Hongkong and Szechuen Roads. The service will commemorate the third birthday of the church. Mr. Harry Kingman will sing a solo. Pastor's subject: "Our Church."

prices on raw silk and the hand-to-mouth buying, American manufacturers have been confronted by a defect in the raw stock going from Japan. This when encountered is well nigh impossible to overcome and interferes both with the production and the quality of the merchandise made. It would thus be seen how dissatisfied the manufacturers in the United States are over Japanese silk, and it would seem that now is the best time for the Japanese silk interests to try and set their house in order. If the scheme for the establishment of a conditioning house at Kobe materialises and the center of trading is transferred to that port something should be done to redress these grievances.

Chihli Clique Only Holds Out, Sir Robert Says

Sir Robert Ho Tung, proposer of the Round Table plan for the settlement of China's problems, said yesterday that he had received favorable responses to his suggestion for the holding of the conference from practically all the leaders except Marshal Tsao Kun and General Wu Pei-fu.

"I am very hopeful," Sir Robert told a CHINA PRESS representative yesterday, "that the plan will work out as we expect. Everyone has responded favorably so far with the exception of two or three minor leaders, and I expect favorable replies from General Wu, Marshal Tsao Kun and Tuchun Chi of Nanking within a few days. I have already written to Marshal Chang Tso-lin, who has agreed to the conference, asking for his suggestion for a date for the conference."

No definite place has as yet been decided upon although it is expected to be held either in Hongkong or Shanghai.

Sir Robert has just received the following letter concerning the conference from Dr. Wellington Koo:

Waichiaopu, Peking, Sept. 3.—My dear Sir Robert: I have received your interesting letter of July 30 last. I saw in the local papers the telegram of your interview to the Reuter's Hongkong correspondent, wherein you advocated a round-table conference of the principal leaders in China with the object of reaching a common understanding towards a modus vivendi. Your suggestion made a favorable impression here at the time.

I quite see that if such a conference can be brought about it will go a long way toward solving the problem of national reunification. I gladly give it my personal approval and I am hoping that your efforts will ultimately be crowned with success.

With kindest regards,
Yours very sincerely,
(Sd.) V. K. Wellington Koo.

MARRYING FOR MONEY IS ONE KIND OF FRENZIED FINANCIERING

Good Fight Card Is On The Bill At Stadium Tonight; Garcia - Treadwell In Final

Other Good Pairs To Meet In Semi-Final And Preliminaries; Sam Davis Of San Francisco Will Referee Main Bout

Tonight's boxing card at the Stadium looks like it might contain possibilities of a fight or two or three.

The main go of the evening is to be a battle between Lenardo Garcia, of Manila, and Charley Tredwell, of Birmingham, England. Both these lads are reputed to be fast and skillful; so fast and skillful, in fact, that Manager Jim Sullivan does not hesitate to say that the bout will be "even better than the Carletos-de Dios bout of a week ago." Suffice to say that if it is half as good as that scrap the fans will have no complaints to make.

Both Garcia and Tredwell are here to fight Billy Tingle, the bantamweight champion of Australia and the Orient. The fight tonight, therefore, will give the bugs an opportunity to get a line on both boys. Tingle will meet de Dios and Carletos in addition to the two who will battle tonight.

The semi wind-up on tonight's card will consist of a go between Favacho and Sid White. Favacho is well known to Shanghai boxing fans, his last appearance here being at the benefit boxing show at the Town Hall last Saturday night, when he fought Toledo to a draw. Not much is known here about White.

In one of the preliminaries Jimmie Murphy will meet Valentino and Sullivan says this will be a good fast scrap.

Battling Rib, one of the boys who fought at the Town Hall a week ago, will hook up with Kid Fernandez and judged by the Rib's showing the last time out this ought to be a first class battle of the rough and tumble order. Battling Rib has a fondness for sticking his face in front of the other fellow's glove until the other fellow, thus encouraged, steps in a bit too confidently, which is when the Rib gets in his haymaker.

The curtain raiser will consist of a scrap between Steve Yhing, a Korean, and Yang Pao-shin, a Chinese.

Taken as a whole the card looks good, assuming that these boys are as fast and willing as they are reputed to be.

Sam Davis, of San Francisco, will referee the main bout.

Private note to Sullivan: This being Saturday, most of the fans will want to get away earlier than usual. As a special favor, therefore, it is urgently requested that you get a master of ceremonies to hustle the boys along. Make 'em wind the tape of their hands before entering the ring. It would also be a good plan to round them all up along about tiffin time today, so they can spend the entire afternoon at the Stadium. That will give them a chance to get all their walla wallas over and furnished, with nothing left to do in the evening except fight. The customers go out there to see fights, not to watch the battlers manicure their nails or wrangle with their seconds and camp followers.

SHANGHAI TRAMS APPEAL AGAINST TRAFFIC FINES

British Supreme Court To Consider Important Traffic Decision

The Shanghai Electric Construction Company—the Shanghai Trams—through their attorney, Mr. R. N. Macleod, yesterday filed notice of appeal in the British Court from the judgment handed down by Magistrate G. W. King in which they were fined $10 for allowing over crowding on one of their cars, and $10 for failure to have the number of passengers the car carried painted legibly on the car.

Magistrate King handed down the judgment on September 15 after the Municipal Police had brought the action against the tram line as a test case in their effort to stop over crowding on the local street cars, under Traffic Regulation 36 B.

The case will now go to the British Supreme Court for final judgment.

Abyssinia To Win Place In League

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 20.—A difference of opinion was expressed by the committee to investigate the application of Abyssinia for admission into the League of Nations in consequence of the supposed existence of slave-trading in the country. Mr. Syed Hassan Imam (India) associated himself with the French delegate in favor of Abyssinia's admission, but Sir Joseph Cook (Australia) opposed it.

The committee ultimately decided to recommend the Assembly to grant the application subject to receiving certain desired assurances.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 20.—This morning the Council of the League of Nations at a private sitting decided to proceed, with the assistance of jurists, to an exhaustive study of the questions recently raised on the subject of its competence. The Temps thinks it probable that the Council will afterwards appeal to the Permanent Court of International Justice.

The Council also discussed the question of the frontiers of Javorina. On the proposal of the Reporter, Senor Quinones de Leon, the Polish and Czecho-Slovak representatives consented to the question being brought before the Permanent Court of Justice.

Asia Banking Corporation

September 21, 1923

Spot bar silver was up ⅝d. and forward ¼d. in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 66¼ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 454⅜.

Our official Sterling rate here today was raised to 3s. 1½d., the Gold Dollar rate to 71, the Yen rate dropped to 68½ and the other rates changed accordingly. Our market here today was firm.

At one time there were sellers of Sterling as high as 3s. 2d. for September delivery, 3s. 1⅞d October and 3s. 1⅛d. November December. There were sellers of Gold Dollars at one time at 72 for near and forward deliveries.

At the close, however, the market was a shade easier with buyers at these rates, but with sellers of Sterling at ⅛d. and of Gold Dollars ⅛ point lower. There were sellers of Yen at the close at 67¼ and buyers at 67⅛.

Banks were quoting 3s. 2½d., 73¼ and 1250 for Sterling, Gold Dollar and Franc bills respectively.

India bought silver again in London yesterday, the market closing steady although it is stated buyers were satisfied at the close. New York report their market as firm owing to India buying.

Relieving The President

THERE are minds so constituted that they cannot look at a simple problem of government in the same way they would regard a plain business necessity. In order to spare the President of the United States, in what is still the most arduous single task imposed upon any man in the United States, there is no need to share his power with others. There is no need to appoint an "assistant President," or any other officer not designated in the constitution of the United States. What is needed is plain business practice; and what is still more urgently needed is the co-operation of the people who choose the President to govern them.

Not every qualified adult exercises his vote, but it sometimes seems as if everybody who could write a letter indites at least one epistle to the editor of a newspaper. He addresses the "editor" also on business which is none of the editor's concern, as, for instance, advertising, subscriptions and a number of other matters of detail each handled by the appropriate specialist. This is well enough known, and the editor of a great daily paper probably does not see 5 percent of the letters addressed to him. But everybody gets attention and service, and the machine runs smoothly, with an editor sufficiently detached to attend to his proper business.

He is a correct parallel drawn from the business nearest to hand, which might have been the Pennsylvania railroad or the United States Steel corporation. The truth is that the time of the President of the United States is wasted by people with personal grievances and special interests who do not take the trouble to discover for themselves the appropriate heads of departments specifically employed in their service. President Harding generously leaned to the side of consideration, but he could only pass on his caller with information easily obtainable elsewhere. His secretary can save a President something, but there are personalities too powerful to be refused. It is well known that any senator or any congressman considers he has an ambassador's right of interview, and that he is, moreover, in his own opinion, the best judge of the value of the President's time.

President Coolidge can appoint sufficient secretaries, but every newspaper should appeal to its readers to show a little thoughtfulness and consideration for our most valuable public servant. When Lincoln was inaugurated in 1861 there were five ex-Presidents alive, and there has never been the same number since. There are two alive now, one of them a broken invalid, and that has represented the survivors for many years past. The presidency is a man-killing job, largely because a number of inconsiderate citizens choose to make it so. Out of idle curiosity in many cases, they subject the holder of the office to a nerve-racking strain certain to shorten his life if it doesn't kill him.

So far from there being any inhumanity in the advocacy of straight-forward business methods to conserve the President's strength, no proposal could be more humane.

INCREASE OF TRAM FARES?

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir.—With reference to the article in the Municipal Gazette dated the 20th of September, 1923, that the Shanghai Tramway, alleging their heavy loss sustained in converting into silver dollars the subsidiary coinage collected, has written to the Council for the approval of a proposal submitted therein for an increase in the fares and the alteration of existing fare-sections from the 16th of September, and that to which proposal the Council has replied that they will first give the matter a thorough investigation before they could grant such a request, may I have the honor to use your column to say a few words on this point?

Every one in Shanghai doubtless knows that the Shanghai Tramway have made good profits—especially in recent years—and in spite of their collection of the subsidiary coinage and converting it into silver dollars, though it is so indicated in their letter to the Council that they have sustained heavy loss in this effect, yet, from the point of view of the time-to-time increase of the tram-users and of the prosperous business they have, who could then believe that there is even any slight loss made to them in any circumstance?

However it is most important to ask, is every tram-user satisfied with the present management of the Tramways regarding the passengers' safety and comfort? and will the Tramways guarantee to show a better result should their proposal (as mentioned above) be accepted by the Council?

I feel that the Tramways should not be in such a hurry in the matter of increasing their incomes, but, instead, they should try their best to avoid the complaints frequently made by their customers.

I therefore ask the "Public-spirited" Council, for the sake of the safety and comfort of the tram-users, or in other words—their "proteges"—to take time to consider the matter before granting the Shanghai Tramways this permit. Yours faithfully,

W. Yang.

TRAM CONDUCTORS' SQUEEZE

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Dear Sir.—As a regular Shanghai Tram-user I never fail to notice the ways of squeezing by the conductors in the 3rd class as well as in the 1st. As the inspectors are not available in every car or at the stop of every section, the conductors have ample time and chance to play the tricks. We realise it is very bad practice, because it gives a bad impression to the people in general. This can never be eliminated, if the patrons do not cooperate with the company. It has been my observation that many good-looking Chinese raise no objections when the conductors ask them to hold the coppers waiting until another section, and, in many cases, they help the conductors to deny the charges made by the inspectors. Some persons hold the idea that the conductors are underpaid and we, therefore, must show a little sympathy to them. No, it is not the way to show our sympathy. It is a public menace. It is a national shame. We, the passengers, have to stop it.

But, on the other hand, the Tramway Company should also make some changes re its administration. Herewith I beg to offer a few suggestions for the consideration of the company authorities.

1. The company should raise the wages of the conductors as a man and his family can hardly live at fifteen or even twenty five dollars per month according to the standard of living in Shanghai.

2. The company should raise the standard of the entrance examination by limiting to at least the graduates of the higher primary school with certificates and letters of recommendation from school authorities.

3. Treat the conductors as partners and let them have a share in the annual profit.

4. Educate the conductors by requiring them to attend a continuation school provided by the company.

The above suggestions may sound theoretical but they may work out successfully if they are put into practice. The Company has held the policy of hiring and firing, but it should be changed into hiring and educating.

Thanks for your valuable space.

Science, Ally Of Religion

New York.—Into the great Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, to be America's greatest church edifice when completed, modern science has entered as an ally to religion.

A loud-speaking amplifier just installed is a strange adjunct to its architecture which is that of the medieval Gothic. Even when the complete church is crowded to its capacity of 7,000 persons all will be able to hear the services within the edifice.

Prior to the installation of the public address system just completed, only a small part of the congregation and choir could hear everything. Services from the pulpit were available a majority of the congregation seated in the crossing but were unintelligible to the choir; services from the alter could be heard by some members of the choir but were totally indistinguishble to the entire congregation; while services from the lectern could be heard by only one-half of the congregation in the crossing and but few members of the choir. Now, in addition to these areas, the rear aisle and corners and vestibules, the choir screen, the spacious ambulstory, and the Chapels are covered by the amplifier.

The Cathedral of St. John is the chief church of the great diocese of New York, which embraces 204 different parishes and missions. Although it is a Protestant Episcopal church, it welcomes to all of its services all persons irrespective of denominational affiliation, nationality or worldly estate, and it is an important civic and national institution.

It compares favorably with the great English and French cathedrals and other foreign edifices in all its phases. When complete, it will extend from Morningside Drive to Amsterdam Avenue, more than a tenth of a mile. It will be longer than Winchester, higher than Rheims; the central fleche will be as tall as the spire of Salisbury, the great piers of the nave arcade will be equalled in diameter and height only by those of Milan, the choir with the its thirty-five feet of width improves upon the best traditions of the thirteenth century French Gothic architecture; the nave will be as wide as in Milan, the 300-foot spread of the transepts is greater than in the Continental Cathedrals, the crossing is only a few square feet smaller than the large area "Under the Dome" of St. Paul; and the radiating chapels opening from the choir already have been pronounced by competent authority "the finest chevet in the world."

"The perfection of art can only be attained by first perfecting the instruments therefor."—Sayings of Confucius.

EXTRACT FROM EXPERT REPORT:

"Having visited most of the cement factories of Great Britain, America and Europe, I am in a position to form an opinion of the relative merits and faults of each.....but my experiences lead me to the conclusion that 'pride of place' must unquestionably be given to the Holderbank Factory in Switzerland .....In design and construction it is a model without rival in any country." W. H. Brown, A. M. I. Mech. E., leading authority in England on cement manufacturing.

The Wisdom of the ancient Sage and the technical experiences of a modern authority on cement manufacturing have guided us to instal a set of machinery in our Lungwha Works which is an exact model of the one used by the Holderbank factory, Switzerland, and supplied by the original patentees with numerous latest improvements. The cement we are now supplying our customers is the product of that "perfect instrument."

A Treasure-Trove of Humor From His Newly Discovered Newspaper Writings

A CURIOSITY

There was a big crowd gathered in the museum around an ordinary looking man wearing an old soldier's uniform.

"I don't see anything remarkable about him," said the man who had just come in. "What has he done?"

"He was a soldier, sah, in the late wah," said the man with the goatee and slouch hat, who was craning his neck above the crowd.

"Ah, some distinguished hero, I suppose?"

"You are correct, sah. He is the only surviving soldier who hasn't written a book criticising his commanding officer, sah."

A PROOF OF LOVE

"If you love me as I love you"—
(Ah, sweet those words to lover's ear,
'Twas Lois spake, in accents true,
So loving, tender, kind and dear.)

"If you love me as I love you"—
(Ah, heaven and earth were wrapped in bliss,
The wild roses listened, drowned in dew;
The very zephyrs sought her kiss.)

"If you love me as I love you"—
(Ah, strains from Paradise her words!)
"And if I do, what then?" I asked;
While round us winged the listening birds.

"If you love me as I love you"—
(She raised those fringed eyes of jet;
And whispered low in pleading tones);
"Just fill the wood box, will you, pet?"

HER FAILING

They were two Houston girls, and they were taking a spin on their wheels. They met a fluffy girl who didn't "bike" out driving with a young man in a buggy.

Of course they must say something about her—as this is a true story and they were live girls. So one of them said:

"I never did like that girl."

"Why?"

"Oh, she's too effeminate."

What Women Wear

In a season when the verdict of the dressmakers is that coats and suit jackets shall fasten at the side there are many little separate jaquettes, so-called, that fasten directly in the front. This is true also of sweaters, although some of them show a right side overlapping the left and tieing with a large ribbon bow at the left side.

This is rather a clever device for the woman who likes to make and likes to wear her own sweaters. Attach ends of five or six-inch ribbon so that a bow may be tied on the left hip and your sweater takes on a novel appearance.

The gray sweater worn with the gray plaited silk skirt has taken hold of the fancy of certain well-dressed young women, and it is not in danger of over-popularity for the reason that gray never seems to gain the sort of unbounded popularity that is apt to spoil a color for the discriminating.

This gray sweater with the gray plaited silk skirt is an interesting departure in the wardrobe of the young woman who has already taken up the fad for wearing, for all sports occasions, a bright red jacket with a white cloth dress—the skirt plaited, of course.

This gray sweater with the this new gray fashion that would prove useful for a variety of occasions. It consists of a gray silk jacket, enbroidered all over in a little flower design—in matching gray, of course. The skirt is straight, plaited, of wool marocain, and the blouse worn beneath is net and lace. It is only by a stretch of your imagination that you could dub the result a sports costume, though undoubtedly the design and line are based upon something that was evolved from sports attire.

Of one thing beware if you are minded to add this note of gray to your spring wardrobe. There is nothing more difficult in the whole range of color matching than getting two grays exactly alike, and when grays don't match they simply won't do at all. Two shades of brown sometimes make a pleasant color scheme. But two tones of gray worn together look dowdy. So work carefully if you are going to assemble a skirt and jaquette costume in gray. Otherwise leave the whole problem to your dressmaker.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies

Infant mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realise that of all the children born in civilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty seven per cent., or more than one third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

1 Imperial Gallon covers about 130 square yards one coat.

Sentence Chinese For Possession Of Automatic Pistol

Accused Also Charged With Counterfeiting Notes

A Chinese named Li Ts-zung appeared before Assessor Martin and Magistrate Kwan of the Mixed Court yesterday on the double charge of being in possession of a .32 calibre automatic pistol and ammunition and of manufacturing counterfeit bank notes. He was arrested at 696 Park Road a week ago, after the Chinese police had discovered a number of counterfeit notes in the house of another man in Chapei. At the Settlement address the pistol was found by Detective Sergeant Robinson and also a number of plates and other printing materials for the making of the bogus notes. Some 23,000 of these notes, of $1 denomination, were seized at the Chapei address.

With reference to the firearm charge, the accused pleaded that the weapon belonged to his father and had merely been left with him. He admitted having had a pistol confiscated by the police previously. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment on this charge and was ordered handed over to the Chinese Court for trial in the counterfeiting case.

The accused pleaded that he had been engaged by another Chinese to make the blocks for the notes, but that he believed they were for the legitimate printing of currency for a local bank. The question of jurisdiction was raised by Mr. R. S. Haskell, representing the accused.
